Dear Friends,

Traditionally, the passing of the old year has been met with a renewed sense of enthusiasm and promise, whether directly related to resolutions for the New Year or a feeling of revitalization, knowing that the slate has figuratively been wiped clean.

Nowhere is this feeling more apparent than here in the Vail Valley as the initial physical signs of this revitalization come full circle in the redevelopment of Vail's new dawn. With the completion of a number of projects, the valley's residents and guests can now look forward to a brand new Vail Valley.

Such has also been the case with the Vail Valley Foundation during the course of 2007. Our incredible board of directors has worked diligently with an extremely talented staff to not only fine tune existing programs and projects to maximize their effect on the community, but to also think and look outside the box for answers that will have a dramatic impact on this valley.

Two examples immediately come to mind with the decision to bring a major international road cycling event back to Vail and Beaver Creek with 2008's Colorado Stage International Cycle Classic and the selection of the Vail Valley as the U.S. candidate for the 2013 World Alpine Ski Championships.

In addition, this revitalization is evident in many of the programs that you have come to know throughout the years, most notably the Vail International Dance

Festival, under the new leadership of Damian Woetzel, and an ever expanding education presence with the development of the Magic Bus program.

Our performance venues continue to rank among the nation's best, with enhanced programming at the Vilar Performing Arts Center, which celebrates its tenth anniversary season this winter, and the decision to construct an orchestra pit at the Gerald R. Ford Amphitheater in order to accommodate live music for the Dance Festival.

As we close out 2007 and move forward into 2008, both the Vail Valley and the Vail Valley Foundation have a good reason to celebrate a renewed sense of enthusiasm and promise. There have indeed been tremendous accomplishments in the past year, which are detailed on the following pages, along with incredible promise for what the coming year has in store.

We are truly grateful for all of your support and invite you to look back at the year that was 2007, celebrating your Vail Valley Foundation.

THE HONDA SESSION

January 12–14 | The most progressive snowboarding event on the planet returned to Vail in 2007 with a new and improved format. Always strongly rider-driven, the Session took the advice of the pros in the design of the new “Steel & Sky” rails course. This state-of-the-art course, coupled with the big air jumps, high tech judging and the best prize purse for a single competition earned the Session the title of second best snowboard event in the world according to Transworld Magazine’s 2007 online poll. Youth ruled supreme on the rails with 14-year-old Ellery Hollingsworth and 17-year-old Lucas Magoon taking top honors in the Steel & Sky competition, while Norway’s Andreas Wiig won the Slopestyle competition. Live music in the Honda Base camp rounded out the festivities for some 15,000 fans who turned out to see the best riders in the world under the lights in Golden Peak, while nearly one million viewers caught the action on NBC’s network broadcast.

COUNTRYWIDE AMERICAN SKI CLASSIC

March 21–24 | The Countrywide American Ski Classic celebrated its silver anniversary in grand style March 21-25 as North America’s original pro/am celebrity ski event turned 25. A stellar group of legends turned out for the festivities, including recently retired Norwegian stars Lasse Kjus and Kjetil Andre Aamodt, as well as perennial favorites Franz Klammer, Phil and Steve Mahre and Laurie Graham. Network syndication brought the American Ski Classic racing action into over 70 millions homes. The annual Mountains of Hope benefit dinner and auction raised close to $100,000 for the Vail Valley Foundation’s education initiatives, while the highlight of the event came on the final evening as Jack and Susan Ford graciously accepted the Legend of Honor award on behalf of former President Gerald R. Ford and his wife Betty, founders of the American Ski Classic.

CHARLES SCHWAB BIRDS OF PREY WORLD CUP RACE WEEK

November 29–December 2 | Tenacity and adaptability were the operative words at the 2007 Charles Schwab Birds of Prey World Cup as a lack of early season snowfall, warm temperatures and unpredictable weather during the races made for an exciting and challenging event from start to finish. The races also served as a showcase for the 2013 World Alpine Ski Championships bid, providing a wonderful opportunity for the Vail Valley community to convey to the world that we definitely want the Championships to return to Beaver Creek and Vail. The U.S. Ski Team continued their recent racing success at Beaver Creek, placing Steven Nyman in the runner-up spot on the Charles Schwab Downhill podium, while Andrew Weibrecht staged an incredible run from the 53rd start position to finish in tenth. Television coverage of the races reached more than 1.7 million viewers nationally, and was broadcast to 30 countries across the globe.

"Engaging New Worlds" through the 2013 World Championships bid

2013 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS BID

The Vail Valley Foundation returned to the campaign trail in April as the U.S. Ski & Snowboard Association (USSA) selected the VVF to spearhead the effort to bring the 2013 FIS World Alpine Ski Championships to the Vail Valley. The bid plan calls for competition in both Beaver Creek and Vail, with Championships festivities throughout the Valley. A 2013 World Championships would also showcase the over $2 billion renovation currently underway in the Vail Valley, while also capitalizing on a newly-created concept dubbed "Engaging New Worlds," a focused effort to grow the sport of skiing and ski racing. Strong challenges will come from a trio of seasoned World Championships candidates from Schladming, Austria; St. Moritz, Switzerland and Cortina, Italy. The 2013 vote takes place May 29, 2008 at the FIS Congress in Cape Town, South Africa.

2008 COLORADO STAGE INTERNATIONAL CYCLE CLASSIC

2007 marked the confirmation of an exciting new athletic event as the VVF secured the 2008 Colorado Stage International Cycle Classic, August 22-24 in and around the Vail Valley. National and international level Pro-Tour, Pro-Continental and Continental teams will go head-to-head in this UCI sanctioned competition that will rekindle the legacy of the Coors Classic. Teams will compete throughout the weekend in a road race, a stage race and a time trial. Rounding out the action will be a major cycling expo, live music and other festivities. Following a 20-year hiatus, the much-anticipated return of international road cycling to Colorado and the Vail Valley is on the horizon!

CULTURE

Gerald R. Ford Amphitheater

GERALD R. FORD AMPHITHEATER

The Gerald R. Ford Amphitheater was again the preeminent destination for summer culture in 2007. As the venue for Bud Light Hot Summer Nights, the Bravo! Vail Valley Music Festival and the Vail International Dance Festival, among many other events, the Amphitheater continued to bring the finest in performing arts to life under the Colorado sky. In 2007, the Vail Valley Foundation unveiled plans to build an orchestra pit at the Amphitheater. With approximately 800 square feet, the new feature will accommodate one conductor and up to 45 musicians. The orchestra pit will add a tremendous new ability to feature off-stage live musicians for the Vail International Dance Festival, and will heighten the Amphitheater's presence as one of the finest performing arts venues in the region.

VAIL INTERNATIONAL DANCE FESTIVAL

July 29–August 12 | 2007 announced the arrival of a new era of dance in Vail. Under the leadership of artistic director Damian Woetzel, the Festival boasted record ticket sales, full houses and astounding international press. Vail achieved a coup by hosting the worldwide debut of Morphoses/ The Wheeldon Company. Led by Christopher Wheeldon, “the world’s most explosively talented choreographer” (The Guardian, UK), the premiere drew resounding critical acclaim and put Vail indelibly on the map in the dance world.

The Festival also featured a residency by Pacific Northwest Ballet, a sold-out appearance by tap legend Savion Glover and the return of the International Evenings of Dance and Ballroom’s Best. 2007 also heralded the arrival of “Celebrate the Beat,” a promising new education/outreach program which brings dance and music to life for Eagle County youths. The program continues in 2008 with an in-school residency in the spring, in addition to the summer workshop during the Festival.

VILAR PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

The Vilar Performing Arts Center rounded out 2007 with record ticket sales and an unparalleled year of programming. Winter 06/07 was the most successful season in the theatre's history, which translated to increased funds for programming in summer 2007. The summer concert series featured headlining shows including Three Dog Night, Gordon Lightfoot, Kenny Loggins, Kris Kristofferson and more. The incredible ticket sales from the prior several months, along with additional funding from the Beaver Creek Resort Company and the Beaver Creek Metro District, allowed the Vilar Center to again greatly expand its programming for winter 07/08. In celebration of its 10th anniversary season, the theatre announced their most ambitious lineup ever in the fall, with several full-scale Broadway productions and blockbuster concerts by prolific music legends. The theatre is now on track to break box office records again this winter season.

FREE CONCERTS

Continuing its tradition of bringing culture and entertainment to the Vail Valley free of charge, the Foundation once again hosted its trio of concert series in 2007. Each of the series has become a celebrated part of life for locals and visitors alike. In the winter, Bud Light Street Beat lit up Vail Village with outstanding musical acts, and lucky local Tracy Escobedo walked away at the end of the season with the Volvo Grand Prize of a 2007 V50 sedan. In the warmer months, Bud Light Hot Summer Nights proved again to be the social event of the season, with record-breaking crowds at The Wailers season opener, and audiences showing up in droves each Tuesday for the following eight weeks of concerts. The American National Bank ShowDown Town series has proven itself as a wonderful community and family event, with six weeks of Thursday night concerts filling Eagle Town Park with picnics, live music and fun.

EDUCATION

Kindergarten literacy

SUCCESS AT SIX

In the 2006-07 year, 97% of Eagle County Schools' kindergartners attended school all day, thanks to donations from the Vail Valley Foundation and a matching commitment from the Eagle County School District. The state of Colorado only funds kindergarten students for a half-day. Because research indicates that full-day kindergartners, on average, make greater gains in both their reading and mathematics achievement scores from fall to spring compared to those in half-day classes, the Vail Valley Foundation and the Eagle County School District strive to make this program a reality for our children. Since the inception of the Success at Six program in the 2003-04 school year, the Vail Valley Foundation has provided $591,324 for this effort, including the current 2007-08 academic year. As a result of this program, Eagle County has experienced a significant jump in kindergarten enrollment this year compared to the previous two years, with a total of 827 children receiving assistance, 754 of those children in just the last three years. The Foundation has committed to support this scholarship program through the 2008-09 school year.

The Vail International Dance Festival's Celebrate the Beat was introduced in 2007. This education/outreach program brings music and dance to life in Eagle County Schools, and will continue in 2008 with a spring in-school residency in addition to the summer workshop.

MAGIC BUS

As a complement to the Success at Six program, the Foundation, in partnership with the Youth Foundation, has launched the first Magic Bus. The new 22-passenger bus, graciously donated by the Beaver Creek Resort Company, has hit the road. Retrofitted to accommodate theme-based presentations, interactive media, workspace, books and book check-out, the vehicle is a veritable classroom on wheels. The program focuses on kindergarten readiness by visiting both licensed and in-home childcare centers throughout the Vail Valley. A significant gap currently exists in readiness among students entering kindergarten who have regularly attended a preschool program and those who have not, either for financial or personal reasons. The Magic Bus will provide a chance for children to gain some of these socialization and English language acquisition skills before they enter school, while parents will receive valuable tools and information on the role they play in their child's learning. Through a generous grant from Vail Resorts, the Vail Valley Foundation has the ability to outfit a second Magic Bus for the program in 2008.

“I’m always touched by my son’s excitement each time he selects a new book to read. The new Magic Bus program guarantees that books and other educational tools will be offered at people’s front doors... I applaud (the Foundation) in being champions of early childhood education.”

— Kim Newbury, Eagle Valley Childcare Association board member

AEI WORLD FORUM

With the 2008 Presidential election 17 months away, the ongoing war in Iraq and major immigration legislation on the horizon, participants at the 2007 AEI World Forum had plenty to ponder as the annual gathering of some of the world's foremost political and economic minds returned to Beaver Creek June 21-24. Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney served as the opening speaker, while other leaders in attendance included Vice President Dick Cheney, Newt Gingrich and Arizona senator Jon Kyl. In addition to his traditional duties with World Forum, Vice President Cheney also helped officially rededicate Gerald R. Ford Hall, formerly Village Hall, where all of the Forum meetings have taken place since the event moved to Beaver Creek.

GOLD STAR GIVING

The Gold Star Giving program awards grants to qualified Vail Valley non-profits providing educational services within Eagle County. Funding for this program comes through generous private donations, with donors having the ability to target their monies to specific qualified programs. Many Gold Star Giving recipients meet stringent guidelines set forth by the Colorado Childcare Tax Credit (CCTC), which has been a strong vehicle for educational fundraising.

SCHOLARSHIPS

The VVF scholarship program was created for the benefit of Vail Valley residents who have been admitted to a four-year college or university. The program currently has 26 students on scholarship including four deserving new students in 2007. Students are selected based on academic performance, financial need, leadership ability, extracurricular activities and community involvement. In 16 years, the VVF has awarded 60 scholarships for students attending four-year institutions and aided a grand total of 100 students. In addition, the Karri Casner Scholarship at Colorado Mountain College benefits local minority students, many of whom are the first in their families to seek a college degree. Currently 12 students are receiving assistance toward an associates degree, with six new students selected in 2007.

VILAR CENTER COMMUNITY PERFORMANCE FUND

Each year, the Vilar Center Community Performance Fund underwrites the technical, production, labor and theatre-usage costs for approximately ten local dance, music and theatrical performances. The Fund gives members of the community the opportunity to experience the excitement of performing on an incredible stage with professional production qualities and support. In 2007, $60,000 of in-kind services were donated to twelve organizations and schools that utilized the Vilar Performing Arts Center for their shows. Beneficiaries included the Vail Performing Arts Academy, Eagle Valley Academy of Dance, Vail Jazz Foundation, Friends of the Dance, Vail Mountain School and the Vail Valley Theatre Company.

VAIL VALLEY ATHLETE COMMISSION

Conceived in 1997 by local resident Pepi Gramshammer and supported by the Vail Valley Foundation, Vail Resorts, the Town of Vail and the Beaver Creek Resort Company, the Vail Valley Athlete Commission is dedicated to providing financial support for individuals competing in an international arena. To be considered for funding, a competitor must participate in international competition outside of North America; be a resident of the Vail Valley for a minimum of three years; apply as an individual, rather than a team and be 15-years-of-age or older. The Commission has provided funding for over 120 local athletes including Chad Fleischer and Sarah Schleper, as well as Stacia Hookum, Toby Dawson, Chris Doyle and Mike Kloser. Applications and grants are distributed bi-annually in order to accommodate winter and summer athletes.

STARS PROGRAM

2007 was another banner year for the Vilar Performing Arts Center's STARS (Support The Arts Reaching Students) program. Since its inception in 1998, the program has brought local students to the Vilar Center throughout the school year for special programming aimed at introducing children to the arts. Through the generous support of private donations, the program has evolved to be completely cost-inclusive for both the students and the local school districts, with the Vilar Center underwriting the tickets for the students as well as the transportation expenses for the school districts. Highlights from the 2007 STARS season included a stage adaptation of the beloved children's book "If You Give a Mouse a Cookie" and the Broadway musical "Seussical: The Musical," based on the timeless tales of Dr. Seuss.

EAGLE RIVER PRESERVE

A dream will become a reality in the spring of 2008 when the first phase of the restored Eagle River Preserve opens in April. After months of work, including the deposit and shaping of 700,000 cubic yards of earth, the creation of carefully sculpted ponds and streams, and the layout of a network of trails that meander through the completed section, visitors will have the opportunity to experience the Preserve as it was envisioned when the Vail Valley Foundation embarked on this ambitious project in 2004. Eagle County, which now owns the property, is overseeing the restoration of the Eagle River Preserve, with governance by a strict conservation easement enacted at the time of purchase. Next on the "to do" list is the planting of vegetation throughout Phase I—native grasses, willows, sage, trees—placement of signage and final cleanup in anticipation of a spring opening near Earth Day.

ANNUAL GRANTS

Since its inception in 1981, the Vail Valley Foundation has contributed more than $10.6 million to other local non-profit organizations and projects that reflect the Foundation's mission statement. 2007 grant recipients include:

“We travel a lot and are lucky enough to have seen hundreds of shows all over the world. ‘Lost in Yonkers’ at the Vilar Center was up there with the best—if not the best. Thank you indeed for all the shows that you provide us with at the Vilar; they are all so top quality!”
